SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

Historians divide Reconstruction into two periods: Presidential Reconstruction, lasting from 1865 to 1867, and Congressional Reconstruction, from 1867 to 1873. During Presidential Reconstruction, Andrew Jackson sought to readmit the breakaway states as quickly as possible. Using a combination of loyalty oaths, presidential pardons, and the restoration of political rights, Jackson hoped to move rapidly beyond the rebellion and reunite the United States. The Radical Republicans in Congress felt that the Confederate States, and their citizens, must be punished for their secession attempt. Congress passed the Reconstruction Act of 1867, a sweeping law that required, among other things, a new loyalty oath superseding Jackson's previous oaths. Reconstruction and Military Government in the South, 1867–1870, Office of Civil Affairs, Part I: First and Second Military Districts contains thousands of examples of this oath, The Ironclad Oath, required of any candidate for political office in the former Confederate States. While these personal copies of the Ironclad Oath compose the largest portion of this collection, the first eight reels contain letters, memoranda, and applications for employment.

“The Ironclad Oath”

I do solemnly swear that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the United States since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel, or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have neither sought, nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, authority, power, or constitution, within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto. And I do further swear that, to the best of my knowledge and ability, I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter; So help me God.

During Reconstruction, the former Confederate States were divided into five military districts. The documents in this collection were received by the First and Second Military Districts: Virginia and North/South Carolina, respectively. The first eight reels are generally organized by county or independent city, but this organization is neither complete nor consistent. The final eleven reels contain a wealth of information for the genealogical researcher. Organized by state and then by county, these reels contain thousands of original, signed oaths.

Due to the nature of this collection, there are many spelling variations of common names. The names are recorded as they appear in the original documents; LexisNexis has made no attempt to standardize the names. In some cases, different variations of the same name appear in the Signatory Index.

Historians will be interested in many other collections from LexisNexis, including Civil War Battles and Campaigns, Papers of Union Staff Officers, Records of Ante-Bellum Southern Plantations from the Revolution through the Civil War, and Civil War Unit Histories: Regimental Histories and Personal Narratives. LexisNexis also publishes many genealogical collections, including The Freedman's Savings and Trust Company, Papers of Union Staff Officers, Papers of the American Slave Trade, and Records of Southern Plantations from Emancipation to the Great Migration.

SOURCE NOTE

Record Group 393: Records of U.S. Army Continental Commands, Records of Military Districts, 1867–1871, Office of Civil Affairs, First Military District, Entries 5242, 5248, 5251, and 5255, and Second Military District, Entries 4363, 4364, 4365, 4366, 4367, and 4380, National Archives, Washington, D.C.

EDITORIAL NOTE

LexisNexis has microfilmed the documents in this collection in the order in which they were arranged at the National Archives. There are a small number of documents that may have some legibility problems due to poor storage conditions, age, quality of paper, and/or usage. LexisNexis has filmed all available documents from the entries listed in the source note.

REEL INDEX

The following index is a listing of the folders that compose Reconstruction and Military Government in the South, 1867–1870. The four-digit number on the far left is the frame number at which a particular file folder begins. This is followed by the file title and the date(s) of the file. Signatories of oaths are highlighted here and in the Signatory Index. Signatories are listed here in the order in which they appear on the film, and each one is listed only once per folder.

GEOGRAPHIC INDEX

The following index is a guide to the North and South Carolina counties covered in this microform publication. The first number after each entry refers to the reel, while the four-digit number following the colon refers to the frame number at which the file containing information on the county begins. Hence, 12: 0001 directs researchers to frame 0001 of Reel 12.

SIGNATORY INDEX

The following index is an alphabetical listing of the signatories in this microform publication. The first number after each entry refers to the reel, while the four-digit number following the colon refers to the frame number at which a particular file folder containing the document from the signatory begins. Hence, 13: 0458 directs the researcher to the folder that begins at Frame 0458 of Reel 13. By referring to the Reel Index, which constitutes the initial section of this guide, researchers will find a document list including folder titles and signatories in the order in which they appear in the film. Every effort has been made to ensure the following names are correct. Due to variations in legability and literacy, however, it is impossible to ensure that every name is correct. In some cases, different variations of the same name appear in this index.

Reconstruction, lasting from 1865 to 1873, was an attempt to reunite the former Confederate States with the union. The first stage, Presidential Reconstruction, was more benign and focused on the quick assimilation of the former secessionists into the United States. Congressional Reconstruction, lasting from 1867 to 1873, focused more on punishing the former Confederates and ensuring the political rights of the former slaves.

Reconstruction and Military Government in the South, 1867–1870, Office of Civil Affairs, Part 1: First and Second Military Districts is a significant resource for genealogists. The collection predominately consists of documents and oaths related to civil and political appointments. The organization of the collection, first by military district, then by state and in many cases by county, combined with the Signatory Index, allows the genealogist to quickly locate political candidates, appointees, and office holders. The largest portion of the collection covers the signed “Ironclad Oath,” reproduced below.

“I do solemnly swear that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the United States since I have been a citizen thereof; that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel, or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have neither sought, nor accepted, nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority, or pretended authority, in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, authority, power, or constitution, within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto. And I do further swear that, to the best of my knowledge and ability, I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter; So help me God.”
